

CYCLE OF PERSONAL OWNERSHIP

DECEMBER 2019 WINNER

CHELAN COUNTY

RYAN ROY

The District just completed a major project that helps set the industry standard for a project of this magnitude and significance. Magnitude – the project itself consisted of completely replacing our river planning, energy dispatch, and energy accounting systems and required the integration of the new systems with our existing systems. Significance – More than 20,000 hours of work was completed on-time, on-budget and with no compliance problems or issues. More importantly, the project was completed at a fraction of the cost of industry standards and involved the coordination of almost every department at the District. The TDIP demonstrated how project management, when done correctly, can help direct projects of this complexity. Ryan Roy was the project manager for this project. His dedication and unbelievable determination clearly demonstrates individual accountability that far exceeds my expectations. Based on these reasons, I believe that Ryan Roy should receive the first CPO award for 2020.
