ADAM COUEY

While sitting in his cubicle, Adam overheard talk regarding the energy isolation plan (lock-out / tag-out) for a project that did not seem right to him. He did some quick research of existing drawings and operations and maintenance instructions (OMI's), and found there were four (4) valves in the system that were not included in the energy isolation plan. Adam was able to interject with this new information, and get the project energy isolation plan changed prior to the contractor starting work.
