CYCLE OF PERSONAL OWNERSHIP

APRIL & MAY 2020 WINNERS
Multiple Accounting staff members have mentioned how helpful Christian has been in getting them up and running to work remotely most efficiently and productively from home, while he was also providing an instrumental role on the pandemic ICS team.

One staff commented that “Christian is a Rock Star of IT magic!” for getting her laptop to mirror screens with her home screen. Another one mentioned that due to Christian's excellent instructions, she now had two functioning monitors at home and was ready for the busy first of the month responsibilities.

Thank you, Christian, for your excellent customer service and dedication at this challenging time!
Eddie is always fast in responding to AP Department IT needs. Just recently, he responded to an issue I was having on my computer and within hours he had reimaged my computer and had me back in working order. This is just one example. The IT Department in whole, is always so quick in resolving AP issues and is greatly appreciated by Accounts Payable staff.
Tracy Yount and Rich Hyatt have demonstrated the Cycle of Personal Ownership as the Incident Commander and Deputy Incident Commander for the COVID-19 team. They have both taken responsibility for an incident very different than the type of incident the District normally manages. This incident has been evolving rapidly and with their leadership operational units prepared themselves as quickly and efficiently as possible. ICS team members (too many to mention) have contributed to this effort by monitoring a flurry of legislative activity, monitoring evolving scientific and regulatory guidance, developing the elusive supply chain for PPE and supplies related to this incident, communicating to keep employees and managers informed and preparing employees and worksites for working as safely as possible in these unprecedented circumstances. There are several members of the ICS team with remarkable expert knowledge on responding to incidents.
